B.C. Civil Servants 'Hidden' Report Release Asked At City Parley

The resolutions committee of the B.C. Government Employees' Association today was asked to draft a resolution giving the association's executive power to take a strike ballot "if necessary" to obtain release of the Carrothers Report.

The B.C. government has so far refused to release the Car-rothers Report on civil service bargaining rights.

The report was submitted last January by UBC Professor Dr. F. A. Carrothers but never has been made public.

The issue caused a two-hour by B.C. civil servants

Discussion of the longawaited Carrothers Report marked opening stages of the 16th annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees' Association at the Empress Hotel this morning.

At the outset the 98 executive members and delegates considered a resolution that:

The committee was asked "spell it out clearly" that the executive be given power to take a strike ballot if necessary.

"The new resolution will be fully discussed later this after-noon," said Larry G. Huck, Victoria, second vice-president of the association,

"It should be a spirited dis-cussion," he said.

Earlier, the convention de-feated a resolution from the Peace River district branch urging that "in any future emergency where strike ac-tion is contemplated, the matter of striking institutions be put to a direct poll of all association members."

Look Who's Talking

IN LONDON AND WASHING- millions, Obviously we are restrictton Mr. Fleming has lately demanded that Britain and the sterling nations of the Commonwealth abolish their last import restrictions against goods from dollar countries like Canada. This is indeed a good like Canada. This is inuced a good idea, though most of the British restrictions have already been removed. But Mr. Fleming is the last man entitled to criticize the trade a pólicies of Britain.

His criticism of "unfair, discriminatory" British restrictions is so obviously unfair that even The Toronto Globe and Mail, the Canadian Government's leading newspaper organ, explodes in anger.

"In this kind of talk," says The Globe and Mail, Mr. Fleming was skating on thin ice. Judging from press reports, some of the other delegates (at the recent Commonwealth conference in London) politely told him so, explaining that they viewed controls as essential to buttress their unfavorable trading positions. Unfavorable in relation to whom? In relation to Canada.'

It is quite unreasonable, as The Globe and Mail adds, for Mr. Fleming "to pose Canada as the aggrieved party, because the very restrictions he attacks as offensive to Canada are largely Canada's own doing. If our trade with the rest of the Commonwealth were more of a two-way proposition they would have vanished long ago."

The fact is that last year the Commonwealth nations accumulated a deficit of $322 millions in their trade with Canada. Britain's unfavorable balance here was $249

ing British goods far more than Britain is restricting Canadian goods.

"This," The Globe and Mail concludes, "is the side of the trade coin that Mr. Fleming's London speech ignored. If we want to see the last of the dollar restrictions thrown out, the best way to do it is by increasing our Commonwealth purchases, particularly our purchases from Britain. Until we do this, it is not Canada but Britain and the other countries that should be complaining about discrimination."

The Canadian Government, however, shows no sign of reducing the present barriers to British imports. It promised in its days of opposition to undertake a great campaign of Commonwealth trade, even to divert some 15 per cent of our trade from the United States to Britain. Its first act on taking office was to raise the tariff on British woollens, Britain's largest export to Canada.

In the first seven months of this year our exports to Britain fell six per cent below the figure for the same period a year ago, and to the Commonwealth as a whole they fell eight per cent. Exports to the United States rose by 11 per cent. And Britain continued to run a heavy deficit in our market."

Yet Mr. Fleming criticizes Britain for its ill treatment of Canadian goods. What do they make of him in London? The British are too polite to say, but undoubtedly they have long since written off Mr. Diefenbaker's Commonwealth trade campaign as another lost vision.

come a monstrosity, Nowadays few places are safe from radio noises. And it seems that the places least likely to need radio are the ones which now attract it most. The invention of the transistor has multiplied the threat a hundred-fold. The argument for the portable is becoming insupportable.

Paradise Lost

Consider the scene. A long sandy beach on which the sun beats with a fine browning heat. The sunbathers re-lax in comfort, every sense lulled by a pleasing sensation. The warmth of sand and air caresses the skin, the smell of the sea comes with salty fragrance, such eyes as are open perceive a beautiful panorama of sparkling ocean and treed headland, while to the ears is wafted the gentle wash of waves, the distant cry of a seabird and the soft murmur of the breeze.

It's perfect.

And suddenly about eight feet gested, ranging from murder (messy and

IT'S some years now since a young from your head a hadio set turned on full blast rips out an endless roar of "Come and Get Me."

It is used to try to move farther down the beach in an effort to recapture the mood of peace and serenity. More picnicking arrivals reinforce the barrage of sound. They are spaced at intervals along the strand and to leave the range of one is to enter the field of coverage of another. Coverage? It's burial.

The wash of the waves and the murmur of the breeze are drowned out by electronic vells. The distant cry of sea bird takes on a sneering note and rapidly becomes more distant and rapidly becomes more distant.

It used to be that park benches were a safe refuge for young lovers and elderly dreamers. Park bench occupants could sit for hours in a happy trance, the lovers' ears hearing only warm whispers, the oldsters tuned only to pleasant memories.

Noisy Wooing

Today that is all gone. The young lovers don't bother with 'whispers. "Houn' Dog" screams from a transistor. Only oldsters who need hearing aids and can turn them off are able to stay within 200 yards of the And the spots are less than 200 yards, apart.

There is no escape. On the bus, that tinny sound from the back seat is not someBody whistling through crooked teeth, its a radio set turned as high as the owner thinks he can get away with. The sound is everywhere. You have new proposal, however, gives hope. If science was able to produce the transistor and other marvels, why can't it bring forth a gadget that will serve to jam the reception of transistor sets? Just as the "blab off" attachment re-duces TV commercials to silent mouthing, could not some other invention cut off radio loud speakers at the will of the captive audience?

Over and Out

A radio set, for instance, opens up its barrage of sound behind the beach log against which you are dozing. With a shudder you reach quickly into the pocket of your nearby jacket, deftly turn a knob and the bellowing imturn a knob ar mediately ceases.

Your "Handy Little Silent Partner for Peaceful Picnickers" has done the trick. By sending out counter-waves or through some other device, it has effectively stilled all portable radio sets within a radius of 100 yards.

For the remainder of the afternoon your rest will be disturbed only by grateful sunbathers who come to you with slight tokens of their esteem and thanks small purses of money, perhaps; slices of home-made pie; lockets or other eweled trinkets that may have been in the family for generations but now form a timely and fitting symbol of excitivities. bol of gratitude.

So come on, scientists, see what you can do along these lines. Fame and fortune await the lucky inventor. And to these I could add a small heirloom myself an ear trumpet, circa 1850, which would make a lovely book end or lamp shade for the laboratory.

He denied any intent to set hard

When it came time to write the Camp David communique, the President naturally wished these assurances of Khrushchev's to be reflected in the published text. The draft communique did in fact include some such statement as the President made at his press stood.

Khrushchev sharply protested this passage in the draft. The argument, carried on before witnesses, was brisk and prolonged Khrushchev repeatedly admitted that the language proposed for the communique embodies his own agreement with the President. But he kept insisting that if this part of the agreement ap-peared in the communique itself, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer would be en couraged to drag out the Berlin talks "for another twenty five years."

At length, a novel compromise was reached. The President was to announce at his Monday press conference that in addition to what the communique said," he and Khrushchev had also agreed "there could be no fixed time limit" on the negotiations.

In Moscow, Khrushchev was then to confirm this Presidential addition to the Camp David communique. By then, it was so late that the Eisenhower-Khrushchev party came down from the mountains at eighty miles an hour.

Once in Washington, the State Department members of the party discovered a laise assumption that had been made at Camp David. It had been expected that Khrushchev would give the promised confirmation is the President in his Moscow speech; but it was suddenly noted that the Khrushchev speech in Moscow would actually be delivered before the President's press conference

Second Statement

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter therefore asked Societ Foreign Minister Andrei Oxomyko to make sure that Khrushchev kept his promise to the President in a secondary public statement before he left Moscow for Peking.

If this agreement between Eisen-hower and Khrushchev on Berlin negotiations really proves enduring (and the "if" is very big indeed), then the President has at least made one big gain at Camp David.

Negotiations with "no fixed time limit" clearly mean negotiations with no more ultimatums, and no more brutal threats of Soviet unilateral action

On the other hand, the President's gain is plainly balanced by a gain for Khrushchev. The President had quietly abandoned his former insistence on 'prior justification" for a summit con ference, it seemed that Khrushchev had made even greater gains. dent, who has been much more-ill and weary than most people suppose, really seemed to have added Neville Chamberlain's umbrella to Stanley Baldwin's defence budget.

Into Action

The White House and the State Department therefore had to swing into ction after the press conference was iver, explaining that the Tresment has no intentions of sacrificing any of the West Berliners' rights, or any of the Western rights in Berlin.

To judge this point, however, it is wise to wait for the summit meeting which now seems inevitable. Even after fullest allowances are made for the elfects of the President's cold and his weariness, it certainly sounded as: though he were the one who was showing "give" on the Berlin issue.

the next provincial election (expected next year), Mr. Ross Thatcher, newlyelected party leader, faces some tough problems

Organization and finances are two of them. The party organization is in deplorable shape. Financially the Liberals are $8,000 in the hole, and no money has come in since Mr. A. H. McDonald resigned as leader some weeks ago.

Mr. Thatcher has indicated that he will tackle these problems with his customary zeal and susto. He is going to push the sale of $2 and $5 party memberships; and when the money starts coming in, more organizers will be put in the field, greater publicity efforts made. Mr. Thatcher himself is expected, in his own words, "to take to and stay on the hustings" until the

This dissension was not eased by Thatcher's entry into the leadership race. TIGHT SUPPLY

His speech, on the CBC's, political series The Nation's Business, followed growing criticism from many quarters over the effects of present monetary policy.

The Bank of Canada, con-cerned over possible inflation; has held down the money supply. Latest figures show a steady seven week decline up to Sept. 23 in the money supply - public held currency deposits in chartered banks. At that point the supply stood at $13,132,000,000 lowest mark since Eebruary.

The chartered banks since late August have been rationing loans, and in the two weeks before Sept. 23, general loans outstanding by all banks had fallen by $74,000,000 to $5.030,000,000.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the danger of runaway inflation "can be avoided without denying the right of small businessmen and small borrowers and farmers and the like to share in Canada's growth." He said that "no matter share in Canada's growth."

He said that "no matter what the propaganda" in favor of increasing the statutory 6 per cent limit on bank lending charges, the government does not intend to do that. It would merely increase the income of banks, and

SIDELINE SLANTS

PICKING UP ICE CHIPS

You can say what you wish about more talent and players fighting for jobs, but ohe of the big reasons why the Cougars sparkled in those two tussles with National League clubs was that Memorial Arena was full of people.

. There's nothing like a packed house to stimulate players and any athlete who has been through the mill of play for pay sport will tell you that a place full of people perks a guy up better than a fistful of pep pills. So give the fans some credit, too, because it's a rare occasion when you see a poor hockey game before

From this corner it looks as if Victoria puck addicts are liable to get slightly entranced over the way defenceman Ron Matthews can manipulate a puck can manipulate a puck. After only a couple of days

AL NICHOLSON of training, Matthews was making moves in Thursday morning's workout that most players can't perform until they have had several weeks on skates. . . But Ron was also paying for his late arrival in camp. When manager coach Hal Laycoe whistled an end to a stiff 60-minute session, Matthews was draped over the boards—struggling to catch his breath. . . . Laycoe would probably like to turn back the calendar a few weeks when he surveys his sparse collection of right wingers. Before training started, Hal had a chance to acquire a sharp young amateur right sider but since he had amateur Carl Forester on his negotiation list and expected George Ford, Arnie Schmautz and Doug Macauley at training camp, he didn't want to spend any additional Cougar money. . .

* * *
When Jim Piggott picked up the Victoria franchise it appeared probable that Elliott Chorley would also join the Cats . . . but since then, Chorley, given permission earlier by his former Saskatoon boss, has been signed with Win-nipeg; Forester has landed in England with Bill Dobbyn to play with Streatham, and Ford has been conspicuous by his absence, and silence. . . . In the meantime, the youngster has turned pro with an eastern-Canada club. . . .

With only Schmautz and Macauley representing established performers on the right side, Laycoe may be thinklng of switching left winger Al-Nicholson over to the star-board flank. . . After all, Nick spends a good part of his ice time on the right side and a southpaw shot on the right wing has better shooting angles when cutting in on goal. . . .

There's nothing new in forwards patrolling their "wrong" wings. Portside snipers "Rocket" Richard, Andy Hebenton, Vic Stasiuk and Brian Hextall, for instance, have done right well by themselves along the right boards. . . .

And as the Silver Fox, Lester Patrick, says: "There isn't such a thing as right and left wingers. They are just wingers."

One reason why little fellows like Schmauta, Art Jones and Ario Goodwin may be headed for outstanding seasons is the large Memorial Arena ice surface. . . The flyweights have more room to scamper than they had at New Westminster, where they were bounced regularly by Incidentally, Laycoe had Doug Anderson working on a line with Arlo and Arnie Thursday morning and the unit looked mighty sharp. . . .

Since most of the talk these days is about baseball, it might be worth mentioning that Gordie Howe, a great all-round athlete can wallop a baseball a prairie mile . . Fans around Saskatoon still mention the mighty home run Gordie poled in the direction of North Battleford off the pitching of Tex Clevinger, who toiled this year for Washing-

You can probably get an argument if you tout Howe as the greatest hockey player of all time, but there may not be many dissenters if you call him the most pampered ... even the Red Wing brass appears ready to work overtime to keep Howe happy . . . and it was hardly the action expected of a great athlete when Gordie barely stepped on the ice after Wednesday's game when called on to acknowl-

Haddim is thinking his system for picking winners at Sandown Park needs overhauling ... or something.

Ol' Shudda may no longer be your very favorite handicapper, but at least he's consistent. His choices have finished dead last, or next to last, five times. He has made seven selections, one per day.

Cautious Kate was just too cautious Thursday and Shudda's original betting stake of $25 dwindled to $17. He has invested another $2 today for a quinella ticket on Low Step and Mac Comet. Handicapper Haddim put a new system into effect while picking Saturday's "sure thing." All he needed was one pin, one blindfold and one program.

Now that the pin has spoken, Shudda is putting two bucks to win on Miss Colleen in Saturday's six th race.

TV Shows Direct From Moon?

HOLMDEL, N.J. (UPI) -Vorldwide television and long distance calls soon may be carried by radio waves bounced off the moon or an artificial satellite orbiting in outer space.

Experiments planned by Bell Telephone Co. scientists will use "passive" balloon satellites to bounce telephone messages, from here to Goldstone, Calif, and back again.

"If successful; they could lead to the first commercial use of space technology, a Bell spokesman said.

This is the first practical application of experiments made in outer space and may open up entire new fields of entertainment and low cost calls to distant points, according to the company.

The facility here includes equipment for both transmitting and receiving. The Na-tional Aeronautics and Space Administration, which controls American rockets fired into space, is co-operating in the

The first stage in the experiment will be an attempt to bounce high powered frequency modulated (FM) radio waves off the moon.

Although single telephone channels will be used in the initial experiments, the scien tists want to learn whether television's "broadband" sig nals, the equivalent of 900 tele phone channels, could also be transmitted.

Bible Lists 'Sex Rules' Says Billy

WHEATON, Ill. (UPI)-The Bible doesn't pull any punches about sex famed evangelist Billy Graham said Thursday night. "The Bible is explicit about setting forth rules for sexual conduct," he said. "It doesn't adopt a hush-hush, Victorian attitude toward sex."

Graham addressed a crowd of 16,500 teenagers and their parents at his Wheaton College crusade The evangelist told the eroud of young people that Americans today are preoccupled with sex because they have abandoned the moral code of the Bible. "Sex is a God-given instinct," he said. "Used rightly, it is a wonderful servant; used wrongly, it is a terrible tyrant. It is a creative energy which should be directed by Christ."

Mr. Strachan told 100 in his audience that when the plans of Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren first were made public, it was stated the company would build monorail in the Rocky Mountain Trench and would build dams for power for new northern industry.

THEY GOT IT'

Now, he said, the proposed railway is not a monorail and, it will not run through the trench but west of it. What they were after was a franchise for a railway, to Alaska, and they've got it." He recalled that while engineering studies were underway, PRFD president W. C.

Mainwaring appeared before a Senate banking committee in Ottawa to ask removal of the federal tax on exported power. "I-thought it was to be used in B.C. to create new industry."

HURT FINANCING

Mr. Strachan said Mr. Mainwaring told the government it the tax was not removed it could have a serious effect on the financing of the Peace River project. The CCF leader said the apparent plan was saie of Peace River power to industrialized areas of the western United States.

"We have a sucker government and the financiers of the world know it. That's why they are coming here.

He said the tycoon interests know if they can gain control of large areas of the provincial resources, they control the economy of the province.

Mr. Strachan dwelt on the fact that farmers, labor, people on fixed income, the professional group and the small businessmen tend to fight among themselves over the question of blame for economic troubles." In reality, he said, they are all opposed by large monopoly interests.

PROPAGANDA

He said massed propaganda machines are turned on by the farmers or labor or other groups consider political ac-

"The farmer is told the whole reason the new combine costs so much is because of the cost of labor," said Mr. Strachan. But he contended that in 1945, 30 per cent of the selling price was wages, but in 1952 wages represented only 22 per cent. In the same period profit on the same item jumped from 10 per cent to 17 per cent.

20% RETURN

He said in the case of cars sold in 1958 "less than 1/10 of the selling price of the vehicle went to the worker who pro-duced it."

He said the Kefauver commission in the United States found General Motors priced their products in such a way that even after taxes there was a 20 per cent return on invest

He said this occurred when the plant was at 80 per cent operating capacity. At full capacity the profit was 37 per cent. On the same basis, a Canadian probe found labor costs on a $299.95 washing machine amounted to $8.27.

And the haze hid Race Rocks at the same time a shaft course I wondered . . . small-town character that I am : . . what in the world anyone was doing living anywhere else in the world?

Wandered into the appropriate office to sign away a modest number of shekels which will eventually find their way to the Community Chest via the payroll deduction plan . . . and wondered if it didn't seem even easier this year than in other years because of the excellent pub-lic relations approach of the Chest . . . there's a razzle-sparkle to this year's publicity efforts which appeal to the corny side of my nature . And wondered if Loot-Comm Ray Wormald, who al-

Plant Grows on Driftwood, Lives on Water and Air By PENNY SAVER

An exciting Brazilian plant that can grow on driftwood is being imported to a local florist shop! With long, green leaves, something like a pineapple plant, it grows like an orchid, on the wood but doesn't take any sustenance from it. All it needs is water and air. Leaves swirl from hollow centre that is filled with water. That's all you have to do for to grow — keep the centre of the plant "vase" full of water.

Plant is extremely hardy, but doesn't like radiators. You can put it in a pot, too, but the real point is that it doesn't need soil to produce a lush green growth for the house. Price is $3.75 a plant.

Had cod for dinner lately? It's brought in from boats every morning—fresh caught. Fry cod fillets in crumbs. Serve it with a cream sauce. Deep fry it with a batter. Cod is chock full of minerals. Price? A very low (especially for the meatcourse of the meal) 35 cents a pound.

Produce shops are full of delicious fresh végetables these days. Leeks are looking especially delicious and healthy this year. I saw them at 25 cents for two big bunches. This vegetable is sometimes neglected in this country, but it's mild and - try it with a sauce

Cabbage, good solid green heads, is selling at 10 cents a pound Parsnins are 25 cents a pound.

Add a sprig or two of langy watercress to your salad to-morrow night. It'll give extra special flavor, and vitamins. A

THRIFTY CANDLE USERS Is it necessary to use fresh candles on the dining table each night, and is it ever proper to use half a candle or a mere stub? The reason I am asking is that I recently went to dinner in a home where the candles were only about four inches long and had been used before. I was surprised, to say the least, Louise Davis Answers:

When setting a table for guests, a hostess should use candles or those which had been burned but a fraction of an inch, just so they are proportionately high. It is likely that in your case the hostess didn't realize until too late that she had no fresh supply on hand. To satisfy a fetish that burning candles are a must in her family, she used what she had. It would have been better had she abandoned the candle idea on that occasion.

hower viewings and who can forget the spine-shattering ninth-inning rally of the inning rally Dodgers against the baffled Braves. To me the most disappointing show the week was the

"Here comes Mrs. Gossip the 7 O'Clock News!" Steve Allen hour. It was strictly from cuteness and the clever guy in the hornrims didn't seem to appreciate the fact that this was his big opportunity to do what he couldn't do on Sunday, become Monday night "king."

It may have been expecting too much. But I thought Steverino would have scrapped his old format EV 5-1042 entirely, and offered something streamlined and new to coax his first night viewers into a weekly trap.

As far as I'm concerned Allen's weakness has always been his choice of guests. There were the exceptions, of course, such as the memorable night he and Bob Hope went to town, the soirce with England's Brand-new merchandise, Brilliant Peter Ustinov and so on. But in the main his guests haven't been anything like the stature of must clear to make say the guests of Sullivan, Moore, Como or on Andy Williams' late summer show.

Speaking personally I hope Allen finds the answer because as a man and a brain I admire him very much.

Radiation Increase No Hazard

scientists who took part in the International Geophysical Year program found that average levels of radiation from atom explosions increased four or five times across Canada between late 1957 and March 31 of this year

However, a report on Can-ada's role in IGY released by the National Research Council over this period amounts to a fraction of the total ddsSir viet bomb tests in 1958. Dr. 455 D. C. Rose, chairman of the 12.00 ing committee for IGY, said in sources.

The IGY studies produced findings similar to those of the ,ederal health department. A department report last May said levels of strontium-90 one of the most dangerous products of atomic blasts—had more than doubled in Canada in the last three years. Howcrease represented no hazard to health The IGY report was released as Canada proposed a world-wide study of radiation

by the United Nations. CROSS-COUNTRY TESTS

Measurements on radiation were taken at 14 stations across the country. They were confined to determining the quantity of airborne fission products at ground level.

"Enhanced concentrations were observed particularly following the U.S.S.R. atomic weapons tests in March and October, 1958," the report said. One outstanding feature, the report said, was "the remark ably short-term variations" of radiation concentrations. This was due to the fact that many radioactive materials decay quickly, becoming harmless.

DELAWARE, Ont. (CP) - care of its own liquor laws going to change these obsolete Rev. James R. Mutchmor said "without any kind of influence and old-fashioned liquor Thursday Ontario can take from visitors of other countries." Thursday Ontario can take from visitors of other countries."

Without mentioning him by name, Dr. Mutchmor referred to criticisms of Ontario's liquor laws made by Prince Philip during the Royal Tour. "The doctrine of the divine right of kings and princes came to an end when Charles I's head was cut off," said Dr. Mutchmor, secretary of the board of evangelism and social services of the United Church.

In a conversation July 3 with Harry Allen, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Middle sex South, Prince Philip was quoted as saying

Italian Firm To Buy Interest In Underwood

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) ~ Plans for selling a 35 per cent interest to the Underwood Corporation Typewriter manufacturers, to one of its biggest foreign rivals, Olivetti of Italy, have been disclosed.

Underwood Vice-president L. C. Bowen said the deal involved more than $9,000,000 of stock. He said the deal was a "strengthening" of the company, which lost about $7,000,-000 last year.

Underwood President Frank E. Beane and Adriano Olivetti, president of the Italian firm, issued a joint statement say-ing the two companies "will co-operate closely in all phases of research, product development, technical research and

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) -Plans for selling a 35 per cent interest to the Underwood Corporation Typewriter manufacturers, to one of its biggest foreign rivals, Olivetti of Italy, have been disclosed.

Underwood Vice-president L. C. Bowen said the deal involved more than $3,000,000 of stock. He said the deal was a "strengthening" of the company, which lost about $7,000,-000 last year.

Underwood President Frank E. Beane and Adriano Olivetti, president of the Italian firm, issued a joint statement say-ing the two companies "will co-operate closely in all phases of research, product development, technical research and Of Ford Company manufacturing technique.

Du Pont Allowed to Keep GM Shares

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge ruled today the Du Pont Company can end its close financial tie with General Motors without disposing of its nearly $3,500,000,000 stock interest in GM.

Judge La Buy held that Du Pont may not vote any of the 63,000,000 GM shares nor can it or the Du Pont family holding companies acquire additional stock interest in General Motors.
